BRUSSELS, April 11 (Reuter) - The European Union said on Monday it had granted 500,000 European currency units ($570,000) in humanitarian aid for victims of the new wave of ethnic violence in Rwanda.

The aid, given to the Belgian branch of the medical relief organisation Medecins sans Frontieres and flown in last Saturday, will pay for a surgical team and surgical equipment, a European Commission spokesman said.

The spokesman said the EU delegation in the capital Kigali would be completely evacuated later on Monday.
